Are Rising Healthcare Costs Making You Sick?

- ❖ Are you faced with ever increasing costs of health insurance?
- ❖ Have health risk assessments or biometric screenings proven to be effective within your organizations in an effort to improve the health of your employee population?
- ❖ Have you noticed discernible decreases in manageable diseases, ER visits, or in-patient hospital stays as a result of your existing wellness programs?

Join us on June 11, 2015 when Karen Smith – USI’s Director of Population Health Management – discusses a progressive approach to the healthcare cost issues including the evolution of wellness programs.

This presentation touches on national health trends, how these trends are affecting businesses, and what can be done about it. Based on extensive data, Karen will show you how to create and sustain a culture of health in your organization, and how you can deliver bottom line savings to your benefit programs sooner than you would have anticipated.

Learning Objectives

Upon completion of this presentation, participants will be able to:

- Understanding the key drivers of healthcare costs.
- Use data to make informed cost management decisions.
- Explain the new model of employee wellness and why it works.

About the Speaker
