

Preparing, Responding & Recovering from Active Shooter Events

Presented by Jim Bruncati

Employers are required to provide a safe workplace for staff. Unfortunately active shooter incidents have become part of the workplace landscape. Preparing an active shooter response plan should be part of the employers policy and procedure manual. A pre-incident checklist, a response plan, and a post-incident plan will be presented.

At the end of this session, participants will learn:

- How to complete the Active Shooter Checklist
- How to document and list an appropriate Active Shooter response to an event
- How to prepare a post-incident plan for assisting employees

About the Speaker:

Jim Bruncati served 25 years in the New Jersey State Police, retiring in 2002 as a Lieutenant. He served as a Road Trooper, Police Instructor, Hostage Negotiator, Assistant to the Superintendent, and 9/11 Responder. Mr. Bruncati spent 12 years with the New Jersey Department of Health as the Emergency Response Coordinator. He supervised the operation of a field hospital in New Orleans in the wake of Hurricane Katrina. Mr. Bruncati currently works in Emergency Management and Security in the utility sector.

Mr. Bruncati holds a BA in Criminal Justice from the College of New Jersey, a MA in Education Administration from Seton Hall University, and a Diploma in Management and Administration from Northwestern University.
